

I Can Stretch my Brain!

A beginning of the school year activity (or anytime activity) to help children learn to take charge of their learning!

These activities
are suggested
to accompany:

Your Fantastic
Elastic Brain by JoAnn Deak, Ph.D.

Designed by Sally of Elementary Matters

The brain is a truly amazing organ!

Here are some activities to get the kids to think about their brain!

There are 3 activities:

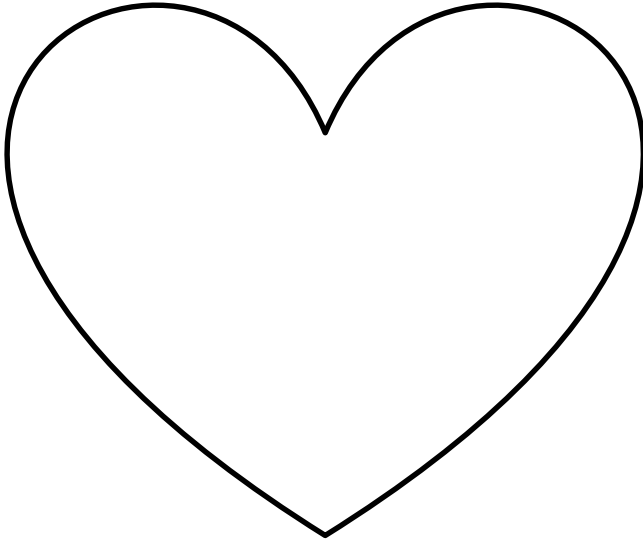

1. Think about what's in their brain now.
2. Think about what they want to put into their brain.
3. Think about how they can stretch their brain.

The children can write sentences or draw pictures to answer the questions. That's totally up to their teacher and their skill level!

Tell about what's in your brain!

Tell about your favorite color!

Tell something you
know a lot about!

Tell about your favorite food!

Tell something you
learned to do last year.

Tell what you want to have in your brain!

Tell about something you want to learn to do this year!

Tell about something you might want to do in the next few years!

Tell about something you might want to do
someday!

Tell how to stretch your brain!

Tell about 3
different ways
you can stretch
your brain. Hint:
do you know
any games that make you think?
